

PAYING THE PENALTY

A Misfortune Which Might Have been Averted.

There is nothing more disheartening than the knowledge that through carelessness and lack of foresight a misfortune is met with which takes the joy out of living and creates an atmosphere of suffering and discontent.

There are chronic dyspeptics who through absolute disregard for consequences have deliberately violated natural laws that govern the welfare of the digestive organs until they have practically reached the state of incurability. To dyspeptics whose condition threatens to become chronic, we suggest the taking of Johann Hoff's Malt Extract with meals. This justly celebrated tonic food possesses unusual digestive properties that have been endorsed by high medical authorities. Can be procured from any first-class druggist, and the genuine Johann Hoff's should be insisted upon.—Advt.

CLARE'S OWN SON IS STATE'S WITNESS AT MURDER TRIAL

Fourteen-Year-Old Boy Will Tell How Father Caused Death of Mother.

The trial of James J. Clare, the Long Island City hotel owner accused of the murder of his wife, Mrs. Ida Clare, on March 17 last, was opened by Justice Van Sice in the Queens County Supreme Court today. He is charged with having beaten his wife almost constantly for two days prior to her death and with leaving her without medical attention on the floor of her room until the neglect and the blows finally killed her.

Clare, in his defense, will claim that his wife had been drinking for several days and died after several falls. The most important witness for the State will be his fourteen-year-old son, Daniel Clare, who will deny his father's story and will tell of seeing his mother beaten several times just before she died.

It was young Clare who called for help and had an ambulance surgeon come to the hotel at Queens Boulevard and Pitting Street. He found his mother unconscious on the floor of her room. He saw her lying on the floor when he started for school in the morning, and when he saw her in the same position on his return he gave the alarm. He at first refused to deny his father's story of the manner in which Mrs. Clare died, but later he broke down and testified before the Grand Jury. Since then he has been in the custody of the Children's Society.

It is understood that several hotel employees will also testify against Clare, and the physician who performed the autopsy upon the body of Mrs. Clare will state that he found nothing to indicate she had been drinking.

"There must be no unnecessary delay," Justice Van Sice stated in opening the trial, and then directing his remarks to the crowd which overflowed from the court room into the corridors he continued: "Any sign of disorder will be promptly and effectively punished."

Clare is a former lightweight pugilist and for several years was prominent in ward politics in the Long Island City section of Queens Borough. Clare is being defended by former Assistant District Attorney William J. Creamer and the prosecution is being conducted by Assistant District Attorney Frederick De Witt.

CHINESE CLUBWOMEN OF CITY GIVE RECEPTION

Thirty Members of New Oriental Organization Entertain American Sisters.

Chinese clubwomen of New York have given their first reception to their American sisters. At Earl Hall, Columbia University, last night thirty Far Eastern members of the Women's American Oriental Club, organized to bring the women of the two hemispheres together, acted as hostesses to their American colleagues. Most of those in charge of the affair were either students or the wives of students at Columbia.

The programme was entirely Oriental. Duets on the Chinese forms of the flute were played by little girls of seven and nine, with Miss Emily Shu at the piano. The entertainment ended with an English version of a Chinese farce, "Spanking the Village Gods." Refreshments were served in the Hangchow style, said to be the most celebrated of Chinese cooking.

Among those present were Y. Y. Yang, Chinese Consul General; Miss C. W. Kuo, Miss Emily Shu, T. Y. Soong, Mrs. E. Y. Sheng, V. Y. Lee, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Shan, Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Chung, Misses A. and C. Huie, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Lo, Dr. and Mrs. Louis L. Seaman, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Liang, Miss E. B. Cutting and Miss E. W. Dodge.

NO BONES BURIED NEAR SPOT OF TRAIN WRECK

Laborers Dig Up Ground, but Find No Remains—Surveyor Denies He Told Story.

WESTERLY, R. I., April 26.—N. B. Gardner, a surveyor employed by the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, accompanied by another surveyor named McKenzie, led Medical Examiner Michael H. Scanlon and ten laborers to a spot near the Bradford railroad station yesterday to point out a spot where McKenzie and Gardner said they had seen "something" buried after the New Haven wreck at Bradford one week ago last night.

The laborers dug up the earth over a large area to a depth of three feet, but nothing save a few burned clothing remnants were found.

The Medical Examiner's visit to New London yesterday was at the request of New Haven officials there, it was learned today. He conferred in the company's offices with seven men connected with the railroad. There Gardner told Dr. Scanlon, the latter says, that the human fragment of which he had spoken a few days ago was very much smaller than Dr. Scanlon, by Gardner's previous statement, had been led to believe.

"The longer I talked with Gardner," said the Medical Examiner, "the smaller the fragment became."

REPUBLICANS IN CLOSE RACE IN JERSEY CITY

First Returns Show Only Three Votes Between Primary Candidates, but Correction Prevents Re-count.

It was thought for a time there might be a re-count in the Twelfth District, which lies entirely in Jersey City, because the Republican primary returns apparently brought a Verdon Republican and an anti-Verdon man within three votes of each other. This was corrected, this morning, when the City Clerk, in going over the figures, found an error which materially increased the total of the anti-Verdon man. The first figures gave him 1,230, but the corrected figures gave him 1,313, as against 1,347 for the Verdon man.

In this district one Verdon and one anti-Verdon man were thus elected. The figures in the district were: John A. Blair, Verdonite, 1,320; John Heddon, anti-Verdon, 1,312; Abraham Wilson, Verdonite, 1,247; George C. Warren Jr., anti-Verdon, 1,217.

In this district Gov. Fielder, whose home district it is, received 4,204 votes for Delegate-at-Large, leading all others and topping Wilson as choice by 335.

State to Be a Bottler. ALBANY, April 26.—The right to dispose of the mineral waters on the State

TODAY'S BEAUTY HINT

It is not necessary to shampoo quite so frequently if your hair is properly cleansed each time by use of a really good shampoo. The easiest to use and quickest drying shampoo that we can recommend to our readers may be prepared very cheaply by dissolving a teaspoonful of castor oil, obtained from your druggist, in a cup of hot water. This rubbed into the scalp creates a thick lather, soothed and cooling in its action, as well as beneficial to scalp and hair. After rinsing the scalp is fresh and clean, while the hair dries quickly and evenly developing a bright luster and a soft fluffiness that makes it seem very heavy.—Advt.

Reservation in Saratoga Springs was taken out of the hands of the Reservation Commission and turned over to the State Conservation Commission to-day, when the bill providing for this transfer was signed by Gov. Whitman. Now the State will go into the business of bottling and selling Saratoga waters.
